This is craziness! I hope this is not true. But who knows what is or will be possible with the way technology is advancing. They say technology is 30 years more advanced than what we know about today.

How Russia could use your aunt's genealogy hobby to kill you

'You can take someone's DNA and design a weapon that can kill them': House intelligence committee member warns people not to share health data with sites like 23andMe because it can be used to program new bio-weapons to target them

- US Rep Jason Crow warned that bio-weapons are being made that use a target's DNA to only kill that person during the Aspen Security Forum on Friday
- The congressman said the development of the weapons is worrisome given the popularity of DNA testing services like 23andMe
- 23andMe has stated that it does not sell off customer's private information, but the company is one of many that has provided information to police
- In 2019, it was found that several Russian and Chinese labs were processing DNA tests for Americans through Medicare and Medicaid
- Officials warned the bio-weapons could also target animals and disrupt food supplies around the globe

When I was in the Navy back during the Cold War I had access to classified information. When I got my security clearance I had to attend an all-day briefing explaining the "do's and don't's" of handling secrets. Part of the briefing was on counter-espionage. There were Soviet agents in the US who did nothing all day but scan newspapers from around the entire country. Whenever someone joins the military and completes their initial entry training the military sends out a press release to their hometown newspaper mainly so their parents get to brag about them. It makes people feel good. But these Soviet agents would collect names, hometowns, and name of parents of whoever was named in the release and store the information in the event of a war with the US. Reasoning was that if they ever took US prisoners they could tell someone that they knew who their parents were and where they lived. Sort of "tell us what we want to know if you want to keep your parents in Lansing Michigan safe".

Imagine the amount of information they can get now without ever leaving home. Then imagine how much personal information the Chinese government has through tiktok.

Russia kills people it doesnt like in broad daylight by contract killers or by poisoning their food or underwear with radioactive material, so I dont see why they would need to go through such trouble.

If you people here think Russia is acting like a independent nation and all these moves with the Cold War and all are not part of the Psalm 2 perspective and plan than you need a new conspiracy theory that will make sense of all the political dancing over the last 80 years in particular.

Psalm 2 states the nations have taken counsel together against the LORD and His anointed in a union to cast off their bonds from them. This is when the LORD laughs them to derision and will set His king on the holy mountain giving him the ends of the earth as a possession when He strikes the nations.

The US is fully all in on the great reset and UN sustainability goals that come from the UN earth charter which is the guiding principals to the global great reset. This Charter was largely written by Michael Gorbachov former Soviet prime minister. The US is agreed to all this and working towards implementation. So all the East West posturing is really advancing the globalist initiatives. The stories about big bad Russia gives the west a enemy to hate when the governments here and across the world have turned on their own people and mandated RNA vaccines that most of the people took. Your bioweapons have been given to you free of charge and it was a civic duty to take them or you could not fly or work at certain places. There are many many soft kill mechanisms now and the large data mining centers are mostly in the US. This is a spiritual battle and your life matters little to the enemies of Christ and the minions of the Anti Christ and his system.

Right now the rest of the world is seeing the dollar loose its place as the global reserve currency as a direct result of the Russia Ukraine situation. The rise in the dollar for one last rally has been by many economist coming right before the global collapse as the dollar many see as a safe haven would have one big last rally before it falls as money would come in as confidence in other countries fails. They are partners pretending to be adversaries the east west is just as fake as the left right paradigm that gives the illusion of choice and keeps the forces that control both sides behind the seen in power.

it's feasible, but a lot of work to go through for 1 person a government could do something really nasty and rude like a racially targeted one though

(but you'd have to have all your researchers of the same mindset and excluded lineage - they wouldn't participate if someone they loved was going to be on the target list and genealogies are full of surprises

Assuming your researchers were all human. An AI wouldn't care about that if it is unrestricted morally and understood enough to "solve the problem". it would just spit out the answer for you regardless if you were on the target list or not.

Very true. Russia could cause a lot of damage if they targeted a certain race then made it look like the US government was behind it. And an AI could do a LOT more damage too!

I don't understand why Russia was chosen as the bogeyman in this scenario. They are not the ones who want to reduce the world's population to 5.5 million.

It would be easier to use political affiliation than race.
